

Marice's Story

32 is the number of admissions to hospital I had with my first pregnancy.....

26 is the number of admissions to hospital on my second pregnancy.....

On my third I lost count but was treated with proper medication and felt understood by my Dr and was not as bad.....

Hyperemesis Gravidarum is NOT morning sickness....

It is like having constant food poisoning for nearly 9 months.....

Zofran, Cariban, Stemetil, Maxolan, Phenergan, Benadryl are the tablets that were tried to stop the constant vomiting..... So Doctor I would love to know how do you think that ginger biscuits are going to stop it???

IV Drips were my friend.....My veins were non-existent from been severely dehydrated so trying to insert a cannula was torture....

Unfortunately in Ireland this condition is not taken seriously by healthcare professionals. Hopefully if people are more educated about this condition women would not have to suffer as bad
